The CIA has publicly stated that it never interviewed Lee Harvey Oswald. Numerous allegations have arisen over the years since President Kennedy's assassination that Oswald either had been or should have been debriefed by the CIA upon his return from the Soviet Union since he appeared to be in a position to provide useful information due to the ^{unusual duration} ~~lengthy nature~~ of his residence and employment there. The ^{response} ~~claim~~ that no records exist which indicate a debriefing of Oswald has ^{stimulated} speculation that Oswald may have had some kind of agency relationship either because the contact was not reported through normal channels or because the CIA communicated with Oswald in another ^{obviated(?)} manner which ^{obviated(?)} ~~eliminated~~ the necessity for a routine debriefing.

The HSCA attempted to determine: 1) whether Oswald was, in fact, interviewed by the CIA upon his return from the Soviet Union; 2) whether there is an official report of the interview if one was conducted; and 3) the reasons why Oswald would not have been interviewed if that was ^{actually} ~~potentially~~ the case.

In response to the Warren Commission's request of John A. Malone, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, submitted an affidavit stating that the CIA had had no relationship of any kind with Lee Harvey Oswald. ^{The affidavit,} dated 18 May 1964, ^{certifies} that "the Agency never contacted him, interviewed him, talked with him, or received or solicited any reports or information from him, or communicated with him, directly or indirectly, in any other manner." ⁱⁿ Mr. Malone's testimony before the Warren Commission on May 14, 1964, ^{he} gave the same assertion as to the Agency's lack of contact with Oswald. ^{specifically} Mr. Malone was asked whether the CIA had had any contact with Oswald during his stay in the Soviet Union.

Malone replied, "No; not to my knowledge, nor to the knowledge of those who would have been in a position to have made such contact, nor according to any record we have." ^(Warren Commission Hearings, Exhibit, 5H 123) He also responded negatively to the question of whether the CIA had any personal contact with Oswald subsequent to his return to the United States. (Ibid.)

Meloni's affidavit was ^{partially} ~~partially~~ motivated by the appearance of an article on 28 February 1964 in the Northern Virginia Sun which made the following allegation: ~~alleged that~~ "State Department records show that Oswald had several meetings with the CIA [redacted]"

During this period, the assassin was seeking to renounce his citizenship.

One State Department cable, No. 234, dated November 2, 1959, reports that

Oswald was interviewed by the CIA and [redacted] embassy officials. (CIA FOIA Doc # 609-756)

The CIA memorandum reporting this ^{story} information, both internally and to the Warren Commission advises that this allegation is totally unfounded.

(^{memorandum} Ibid. and CIA FOIA Document #610-263). The ^{memorandum} explains that the reference to the State Department "cable" is erroneous and that the document to which the article was referring is undoubtedly a State Department "despatch" No. 234, which was dated 2 November 1959 from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. (Ibid.) (not a new paragraph)

→ According to the internal memorandum, the despatch contained no statement or reference that Richard E. Snyder, who ^{was} the Second Secretary of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and the only person mentioned by name in the despatch, had any CIA connection. ^{CIA FOIA b2.} (11-15-75)

However, the memorandum acknowledged that John Snyder and Edward

W. Fries, the State Department official who signed the despatch, had had some past connection with the Agency. Snyder had been employed by the CIA for less than one year in 1950 when he resigned in order to assume a position with the State Department. ^{Although the CIA's} ~~records had never~~ ~~records indicate the existence of~~ ^{actually been employed by the} a history of Agency interest in

Fries, he was never actually employed by the CIA. (H-1.)

The record of the Central Intelligence Agency throughout the years is consistent with its position ^{as stated} ~~that~~ to the Warren Commission that the CIA never interviewed Lee Harvey Oswald. A February 1972 letter from Bernard Fensterwald to the Assistant Director of the CIA requests any records pertaining to a "debriefing" of Oswald by or on behalf of the CIA following his return from the Soviet Union. This request for information contrary to the Agency's previously ~~stated position appears to be generated by a statement made by~~ stated position appears to be generated by a statement made by

Richard Helms on 14 April 1971 before the American Society of Newspaper Editors that "... if there is a chance that if a private citizen travelling abroad has acquired foreign information that can be useful to the American policymakers, we are certainly going to try to interview (CIA FOIA b6, b7C-961-927-A6).

Sen. J. Fensterwald cites Oswald as appearing to be such a person.

It then follows an exchange of letters between Fensterwald and August M. Thuermer, who was the Assistant to the Director of the CIA in which Thuermer refers Fensterwald to the testimony of Malone and

A 25 November 1963 CIA Memorandum (now located in LHA's 201 file as CIA FOIA #435-173-A) is the only documented evidence of any CIA interest in interviewing Oswald. ^{The memorandum written} ~~the author of the memo~~

^{by} Thomas B. Caserio, stated: "As soon as I had heard Oswald's name, I recalled that as Chief of the 6 Branch I had discussed ^{sometime} ~~with~~

^{in Summer} ~~the~~ 1960 - with the then Chief and Deputy Chief of the 6 Research

Section the laying on of interviews through (KUTUNA) or other suitable channels. At the moment I don't recall if this was discussed while Oswald and his family were en route to this country or if it was after their arrival. (CIA FOIA Document #435-173-H).

(Caserio) was interviewed by ^{the} HSCA staff ~~on~~ on August 17, 1978.

In this interview, he stated that he worked as Chief of the 6 Branch from September 1960 until his reassignment in September 1962. ^(see 9-15 Interview of CIA Employee) ^{SH/TTS, p.1} ~~He~~ advised that the function of the 6 Branch was [REDACTED]

The 6 Branch also relied upon the CIA's Contacts Division and the FBI as sources of this type of information, as well as collecting information from the State Department and the press concerning Americans in the Soviet Union. (Ibid., p.4)

During this interview, (Casarin's) recollection of the discussion mentioned in the 25 November 1963 memo was that it took place during the last days of his tenure with the 6 Branch. (Ibid., p.4) This would have placed the discussion sometime in July 1962. He stated that the date cited for the discussion in the memo must have been erroneous as he was travelling with his family between assignments in the summer of 1960 and did not begin his assignment with the 6 Branch until September of that year. (Ibid., pp. 4-5)

(Casarin) stated that at the time the Oswald case was discussed, he assumed that Oswald must have been sent out of the Soviet Union by the KGB. (Ibid., p.4) Therefore, exercising caution, he did not attempt to debrief Oswald that suggested that Oswald be debriefed by (KUTUMP) which represented the Office of Operations, an office which debriefed persons through its Contacts Division or "other suitable channels" by which he meant the FBI or the Immigration and Naturalization Service. He ^{stated that} did not believe that this had been done at that time because ^{this} type of information would have been routinely passed on to the CIA and to this section if such a debriefing had occurred. (Ibid., p. 5) He stated that information he had on Oswald at the time was in the form of State Department dispatches. (Ibid.)

In the memorandum (Casas) states that he told his subordinates something to the effect of "Don't push too hard to get the information we need, because this individual looks odd." He explained in the (CIA FOIA Document # 435-173-A).

interview that this statement reflected the CIA's assessment of Oswald based on the unusual facts that Oswald was permitted by the Soviets to remain in the USSR and was further permitted to marry a Soviet citizen (HSCA Staff Interview of CIA Employee, 8/17/75, p. 5).

(Lisanti) stated that his interest in Oswald as expressed in the memorandum was just a lead and that it was not unusual that there had been no follow-up regarding a debriefing of Oswald. ^(Ibid., p. 9) He wrote no memo at the time of the discussion as it was not customary to write memos regarding leads that were discussed and subsequently ~~dismissed~~ ^{dismissed} as being ~~unimportant~~ ^{unimportant}. (Walter P. Hattigan), the person to whom (Casasins) 25 November 1963 letter was written, was then employed by the CIA as Chief of (HSCA Staff Interview of CIA employee, 6/13/73, p.1) (Hattigan's recollection was in the Soviet section of the Paris station). ~~for 1963, he expressed, in an~~ interview with HSCA staff members that because of the nature of (Casasins) position under [redacted] cover, (Casasins) frequently wrote informal memos such as the one in FDIA #435-173-A which were then passed on through the use of [redacted] to the (Paris station). (Ibid.)

These memoranda would then be forwarded to CIA Headquarters, generally by (Hattigan). However, in this particular instance, Robert G.

(Kempell), who served under (Hattigan), received and forwarded the memorandum to Headquarters. (Hattigan) was in the hospital. (Ibid.)

(Hattigan) expressed the general Agency opinion that had the CIA wished to contact a returning defector, it would have done so through jurisdiction. (Ibid., p. 2)

told the HSCA that he specifically recalled collecting intelligence regarding the Minsk Radio Plant. (HSCA - Interview of CIA Employee, 9/24/78, p.1).

in fact, ⁰³ ~~(Kerensky)~~ claims that, during the summer of 1962, he reviewed a contact report from representatives of the CIA's New York field office who interviewed a former Marine who had worked at the Minsk Radio Plant following his defection to the USSR. (Ibid.) Then person, ⁰³ ~~(Kerensky)~~ believes may have been Oswald, had been living with his family in Minsk. (Ibid.) ⁰³ ~~(Kerensky)~~ advised the Committee that the contact report was filed in a volume concerning the Minsk Radio Plant which should be retrievable from the Industrial Registry Branch, which was then a component of the Office of Central Reference. (Ibid.)

The HSCA requested that the CIA provide the Committee with the above-described contact report and the volume of materials concerning the Minsk

Radio Plant. (HSCA Request to CIA, 10/17/78). A review of the documents in the volume on the Minsk Radio Plant revealed that no such contact report existed in that file.

(Cable to HSCA Report of 10/17/78, ARK 800 #012,023).

The file review did indicate that in 1975, Daniel Selmon had made a similar request and was informed by the CIA that no such report existed. (Ibid.)

The Select Committee on Assassinations requested that the Central Intelligence Agency provide a written statement indicating whether defectors to the Soviet Union as a matter of standard operating stances under which an interview would be initiated if such interviews were not conducted as standard operating procedure. (Ibid.)

The Agency's response indicated that the Counterintelligence Staff reviewed the files of 117 persons who had "defected" to the USSR security matters. The Agency further stated that there were no manuals or regulations for the period of 1958-1963 which specifically address the subject of American defectors. (Ibid.)

The CIA employee who conducted the research in preparation for the Agency's response told the HSCA that the requirements he had utilized in arriving at his conclusions had been somewhat broader than those requested in order to include all those persons regarded as defectors who were residing in the Soviet Union during the time period in question, rather than just those who actually defected at that time. (HSCA Staff Interview of CIA Employee, 11/21/78).

The House Select Committee on Assassinations conducted ~~in~~ a review of defectors' files in order to determine whether defectors other than Oswald were routinely debriefed upon their return to the United States. The committee requested that the CIA provide a list of persons travelling to the Soviet Union during the period from 1958 to 1963, including both visitors and those persons considered by the Agency to be "defectors."

^{In response,}
The KGB, USSR, CIA, ~~the committee~~

^{the CIA}
~~was~~ provided a computer listing of 350 individuals entitled "U.S.

Persons Who Have or May Have Defected to the USSR Between 1958-1963."

(Attachment to 27 January 75 Memo, E. Hugh Jones to S.A. to R&D) The Agency stated that this listing represented ^{U.S. persons,} ~~individuals~~, including some non-

U.S. citizens who owed some measure of allegiance to the United States, who had either defected ^{led} or shown some intention of defecting to the USSR ^{within} the requested time period. (27 January 75 Memo, E. Hugh Jones to R&D)

As this list was compiled from a more detailed computer program on American defectors, a more detailed description concerning these individuals was requested and provided in an expanded version of the original list. This machine listing included the following information ^{wherever available} ~~wherever available~~ for each individual: name, date and place of birth, 201 file number, ^{date} arrival in Soviet Union, departure from Soviet Union, employment in Soviet Union, most current address, and other miscellaneous information compiled from the individual's 201 file and for third agency documents regarding this individual. ("Expanded Computer List of U.S. Persons....")

The Committee compiled a list of persons who appeared from the information available in the Agency's expanded list, to be U.S. citizens born in the United States, who defected or attempted to defect to the Soviet Union between the years of 1958 and 1963 and who re-turned to the United States within the same period of time. ^{In addition,} ~~Reborn~~

It appears from an examination of all available materials, that Lee Harvey Oswald was not interviewed by the CIA following his return to the United States from the Soviet Union. Although persons in a branch of the Soviet Russia Division expressed an interest in interviewing Oswald, they never followed up on this interest.
There is also no indication that the ~~Domestic~~^{Collection} Division of the Office of Operations interviewed Oswald.

Thus, the fact that Oswald was not interviewed was more the rule than the exception according to procedures followed by the CIA at that point in time.

HSCA was advised that at the time of Oswald's return, there were many Soviet citizens leaving USSR & defectors program probably concentrated on them.
